

LEARNING OPTIONS FOR THE 2020-2021 SCHOOL YEAR

Families may choose either In Person Learning or Robust Virtual Learning for their child(ren).

In Person Learning	Robust Virtual
Families who choose the In Person learning option are committing to send their child to school each regularly scheduled school day. Should situations arise where it becomes necessary for families to keep their child(ren) home for an extended period of time, they may shift to a Robust Virtual option (and commit to continuing that until the nine-week session is complete) Hybrid Learning will be a district decision and is part of the In Person Learning Model. Families do not choose Hybrid Learning. At any point, the district and/or school, in consideration of advice from local health officials or other considerations related to public health realities, may shift to a Hybrid Learning model, where students would attend in split cohorts [Green: Last Name A-L (in person Mondays & Tuesdays); Gold: Last Name M-Z (in person Thursdays & Fridays)], attending two days in person and three days virtual.	Families who choose the Robust Virtual learning option are committing to a minimum of nine weeks. After nine weeks, families can choose to shift to In Person learning or remain in Robust Virtual. The district recognizes and supports the choice of its students and families. As such it is committed to offering robust virtual options for interested families. These will include daily live engagement at scheduled times, access to recorded activities and engagements, as well as opportunities to engage with local staff, administration, counselors, etc. Note: Students engaged in choice Robust Virtual (cRV) may have identified teachers at the beginning of the year who will work with an identified group of cRV students. If and when students engaged in traditional or hybrid learning as identified by the district are required to flex into the Robust Virtual model for health reasons, this will be considered directed Robust Virtual (dRV). In those instances, students will engage with their previously determined teachers through traditional or hybrid instruction through synchronous engagement during identified times and access recorded activities and engagements.

Note: The district will monitor regional and local phasing realities, documented risk analysis, and reporting from State and County Health Departments to help guide decisions or considerations. In addition, the district will consider the intimate realities of our school district family. There is no exact metric alignment that would guarantee a decision.
