General Housekeeping

We are almost to the final month of 2023! With that comes new activities on my class website that you can check out!

With the continuation of holiday fun, it can be easy to forget about assignments from school-please remember to check your child's planner daily for anything that needs to be done. Thanks for your continued support!

Congratulations to our November VIPs: Colten and Caroline for showing responsible behavior. Way to go!!

Reader's Workshop

This week we have begun a new module that focuses on dramas and plays. Students will explore elements of a drama, figurative language and central idea.

Math

Students will now be learning about division and how multiplication and division are connected. We are beginning to practice x 9 facts this week and these will be added to their fact decks. Nightly practice is really important as we use multiplication to help us solve division facts!

Writing/ Grammar

.This week students are beginning to hone their skill of responding to literature. Students are answering a question related to a text read, using text evidence to support their thinking.

Students will also be learning about subject and object pronouns. She went to the store. (subject) She went to the store for them. (object)

Social Studies

The students have wrapped up their study on our environment and how people interact with it. Later this week we will begin a new unit that focuses on the first people that settle in North America: Native Americans.

Science

Students will test their engineering skills this week as they build a bridge using only paper and test its stability.

Happy Birthday!

We celebrated Weston's birthday earlier this week, as it fell over Thanksgiving break. We will begin celebrating half birthdays later this week, with Maddy and Allison sharing a half birthday on Friday! Happy Birthday to all!

Upcoming Events

- 2nd/3rd Grade Music Concert: Tuesday, December 5th @ 6:30pm *Be there at 6:15pm!

Reminders

Remember to check those planners for nightly homework!
